Government Auction Highlights Outdoor Recreation Opportunities in Regions Offering Undeveloped Properties

July 29, 2026

Los Angeles, California - July 29, 2026 -

GovernmentAuction.com, LLC continues to connect buyers with undeveloped land across the United States, highlighting regions where outdoor recreation and natural beauty define the local lifestyle. The online marketplace, which offers properties through online auctions and a Buy Now store, reports sustained interest in areas that provide exceptional fishing, hiking, and family-oriented outdoor activities.

The land in Sharp County, Arkansas exemplifies the type of region where the company offers properties, featuring abundant natural resources that attract outdoor enthusiasts year-round. The county encompasses portions of the Ozark Mountains and contains numerous lakes, rivers, and public recreation areas that support fishing, camping, and wildlife observation.

The region includes access to the Spring River, recognized throughout Arkansas for its clear waters and smallmouth bass fishing. Cherokee Village, located within Sharp County, features two 18-hole golf courses and seven lakes spanning over 600 acres. The nearby Strawberry River provides additional recreational opportunities, while Highland in Sharp County Arkansas serves as a gateway to both waterways.

Public lands in the area include portions of the Ozark National Forest and various wildlife management areas. The Davidsonville Historic State Park, situated along the Black River near the county border, preserves Arkansas's first post office and offers hiking trails through historic townsite remains. Hardy, another Sharp County community, maintains riverside parks and hosts seasonal outdoor events that celebrate the region's natural heritage.

"Government Auction recognizes that many buyers seek more than just land ownership," said Ray L. Perry, Marketing Director. "They're looking for places where outdoor traditions continue to thrive, where families can fish together on weekends, and where the natural landscape remains largely untouched. Sharp County represents these values perfectly."

The Ozark landscape throughout the county features rolling hills, hardwood forests, and limestone bluffs that create diverse ecosystems supporting deer, turkey, and various bird species. The Crown Lake area provides additional recreational water access, while numerous county roads offer scenic drives through rural landscapes that change dramatically with the seasons.

Local communities maintain public boat launches, fishing piers, and camping facilities that make outdoor recreation accessible to residents and visitors. The Spring River's consistent water temperature, maintained by underground springs, allows for year-round fishing and attracts canoeists and kayakers during warmer months.

The company notes that undeveloped land in Sharp County Arkansas appeals to buyers seeking property in areas where outdoor recreation remains central to daily life. These regions offer alternatives to urban environments while maintaining access to natural resources and recreational infrastructure.
