

Rockwall Electric Heating and Air Expands Service Coverage to Meet Growing Demand for Electrical and HVAC Solutions

July 28, 2026

ROYSE CITY, TX - July 28, 2026 -

Rockwall Electric Heating and Air, a veteran-owned and women-owned electrical and HVAC services provider, announces expanded service coverage to address increasing residential and commercial needs across North Texas communities. The company, which has served the region since 1994, continues to strengthen its presence as demand for comprehensive electrical and HVAC solutions grows throughout Rockwall, Kaufman, Hunt, Collin, and Dallas counties.

The expansion comes as homeowners and businesses increasingly seek reliable electrical and HVAC services from trusted local providers. With nearly three decades of experience, the company offers comprehensive electrical services including troubleshooting, panel upgrades, surge protection, generator installation, and energy-saving LED conversions, alongside complete HVAC repair and maintenance solutions.

"As our communities grow, we're seeing more families and businesses requiring dependable electrical and HVAC services," said Chris, a company representative. "Our expansion allows us to better serve these needs while maintaining the personalized, professional service we've built our reputation on over the past 30 years."

The company's service expansion addresses critical infrastructure needs across North Texas, where aging electrical systems and extreme weather conditions create ongoing challenges for property owners. Recent power grid concerns have highlighted the importance of whole-home surge protection and backup generator systems, services that have become increasingly essential for protecting modern homes filled with sensitive electronics and smart home technology.

Rockwall Electric Heating and Air in Greenville maintains 24-hour availability to respond to emergency electrical and HVAC situations, recognizing that system failures rarely occur at convenient times. The company's licensed and insured professionals bring over 20 years of industry experience to each service call, whether addressing routine maintenance or complex electrical installations.

The expanded service coverage includes specialized offerings such as electrical installation for pools, annual maintenance plans for electrical systems, generators, and HVAC equipment, as well as financing options to make essential home infrastructure improvements more accessible. The company also provides important safety information to customers, including updates on electrical panel recalls and maintenance tips to prevent system failures.

As a family-owned and operated business, the company has established deep roots in the communities it serves. Its commitment to honest, reliable service has earned consistent recognition from customers throughout the service area. The dual distinction as both veteran-owned and women-owned reflects the company's diverse leadership and inclusive approach to business operations.

The expansion reinforces the company's position as a comprehensive provider of electrical and HVAC services, offering everything from basic troubleshooting to complex generator installations from leading manufacturers including Briggs and Stratton and Generac. With proper grounding and bonding services, electrical panel upgrades, and energy efficiency consultations, the company addresses the full spectrum of modern electrical needs.

Rockwall Electric Heating and Air continues to invest in training and equipment to stay current with evolving electrical codes and HVAC technologies. The company's annual maintenance plans help customers protect their investments while ensuring systems operate safely and efficiently year-round. As North Texas communities continue to grow, the company remains committed to providing the professional electrical and HVAC services that homes and businesses depend on for comfort, safety, and reliability.
