

Fence Brothers Wins 2025 Angi Super Service Award

July 31, 2026

KENTWOOD, MI - July 31, 2026 -

Fence Brothers, a family-owned fence installation company serving West Michigan since 2013, has been named a winner of the 2025 Angi Super Service Award. The annual award recognizes home service companies that maintained consistently high customer ratings and reviews throughout the award year on Angi, the national home services platform formerly known as Angie's List.

The Super Service Award is not an honor a company can apply or pay for. Angi determines recipients based on the ratings, review activity and account standing a business maintained on the platform during the year. In practice, the award comes down to what customers said after their projects wrapped up. Fence Brothers holds a 5.0 rating on the platform, the highest score available, and carries Angi Approved status, which means the business has passed the platform's screening requirements. The company also holds a 4.9-star rating across 21 reviews on Google.

The award arrives in the company's 13th year of business. Brothers Alec and Kyle Trierweiler run the operation from a shop on East Paris Avenue in Kentwood, with Alec handling estimates, scheduling and customer communication and Kyle managing field crews and lumber. Their family has spent 34 years in the West Michigan lumber industry, and that experience still decides which cedar and pine end up in the company's wood fences. Residential projects account for roughly 75 percent of the company's work, and Fence Brothers is one of a small number of contractors in the region that also runs a commercial division installing chain link, steel security bollards, temporary fencing and gated access systems.

Fence Brothers ties the customer ratings behind the award to a handful of practices that do not change from job to job. Crews build wood fences on-site piece by piece rather than setting pre-fabricated panels, using pickets that measure 11/16 of an inch thick, nearly a full three-quarters of an inch and heavier than the stock most installers carry. Rails are cut to a true two-inch by four-inch dimension instead of the thinner nominal lumber common in the trade. The company sources white cedar directly from mills in Michigan's Upper Peninsula and planes it smooth in-house before it reaches a customer's yard.

The company handles project coordination the same way on every job. It files permit applications, schedules Miss Dig utility locating, Michigan's underground utility marking service, and reviews property lines and homeowners association restrictions before crews arrive, so the customer never contacts a township office or utility provider on their own. Every installation carries a five-year workmanship warranty covering structural issues like post movement and picket separation, and the coverage extends to wood fences, a material many area contractors leave out of their warranties. Estimates are free and typically scheduled within 48 hours of a request.

"It's a small town out here, and everybody knows everyone. If you get a reputation for taking care of people, it goes a long way," said Alec Trierweiler, co-owner of Fence Brothers. "We've always figured the last fence we build sells the next one. Having customers back that up in their own words all year means more than anything we could put in an ad."

Homeowners and property managers can request a free fence estimate through the Fence Brothers website or by calling (616) 348-9988. The customer feedback behind the award is posted on the company's business profile.
