

Parent Your Parents Deepens Elder Law Support For Families Navigating Aging

July 29, 2026

KEY BISCAVNE, FL - July 29, 2026 -

Parent Your Parents, a Miami-based firm, is expanding its focus on practical guidance for families seeking elder law services, including estate planning, Medicaid planning, and coordinated care for seniors.

Founded by Attorney H. Frances Reaves, Esq., Parent Your Parents began in 2014 by working with elders and their adult children facing life-changing decisions. Over time, the firm developed a Miami elder law practice centered on protecting seniors from exploitation, clarifying long-term care options, and helping families plan before a crisis occurs.

The firm's current focus responds to the needs of Miami families stepping into caregiving roles for aging parents. Parent Your Parents notes that many families seek guidance after experiencing confusion about caring for aging parents, medical decision-making, and safeguarding assets. The elder law team in Miami has expanded its educational outreach through videos and consultations designed to explain options in clear, accessible language.

With an international background and experience defending elders against exploitation, Reaves provides counsel in English and Spanish. Parent Your Parents has also increased its visibility through social media and educational content aimed at caregivers who may not yet realize that elder law support is available locally.

As part of this ongoing work, Parent Your Parents emphasizes a senior concierge approach that combines legal planning with practical advocacy for the elderly in the Miami area. The firm helps families identify potential care resources, address concerns involving possible abuse or exploitation, and consider legal planning options that may help reduce financial or caregiving strain.

Parent Your Parents observes that families often look for elder law guidance when they begin to notice more frequent medical appointments, new diagnoses, or questions about housing and long-term care. In response, the firm offers planning consultations with particular attention to Miami-area resources and regulations. The aim is to help families understand which tools, including powers of attorney, advance healthcare directives, and asset protection strategies, may support both the senior's quality of life and the family's long-term stability.

The firm practices law exclusively within the State of Florida and encourages families to seek tailored counsel for their particular circumstances. By reinforcing these boundaries while continuing elder law educational outreach, Parent Your Parents aims to help local caregivers recognize when to seek guidance and what to expect from a structured planning process.

For families in Miami, South Miami, Coral Gables, Coconut Grove, Pinecrest, Key Biscayne, and nearby communities who are supporting aging parents, Parent Your Parents offers consultations to discuss elder law planning. More information about the firm's Elder Law Miami services and senior concierge support is available on the Parent Your Parents website at parentyourparents.com or by calling the office at (786) 418-3303.
